

Humans are not evil. They are just crazy.

An Open Letter to the World

You've probably been doing this since childhood but it's really quite a silly idea to ask yourself questions and communicate with yourself just because there happens to be no one else around to hear and reply.

Now, as an adult, you probably ask yourself quite often silently because you want to keep things to yourself. But the fact that you question yourself in your head or what you call mind doesn't mean that you're thinking.

The answers to your questions are not present, lying there ready on the tip of your tongue, and the questions you've been asking yourself in your head tend to be mostly wrong because they depend entirely on the path they've taken from head to tongue which are NOT interlocutors.

A permanent self-justifying monologue in YOUR head has the tendency to become a hallucination of intellect - YOUR intellect, mind, spirit – which disconnects YOU from YOUR body, the immediate and the wider environment. It tells you that IT is the greatest and most precious thing in YOUR life.

And unlike the promises of your belief system, religious or otherwise, your silent questioning inside YOUR head will not have made you a happier person and won't do so in the future. Just reflect in a moment of inner peace and tranquillity what you and others are doing to life on Earth.

You suffer from the hallucination that YOU live in a body and that YOUR physical existence is just a shell which YOU value only in as much as it's the only one YOU have.

If all this rings true and you agree, please add your name to this letter and help support our declaration.

Military aides in one country are now preoccupied with carrying the “nuclear football” - which can trigger total annihilation and environmental destruction - for an insane and dangerous moron. The Doomsday Clock is set at three minutes before twelve, high time to make our voices heard! Please join our call. There are many ways to endorse it.

If you're a mother-tongue speaker in another language, you might like to help with the translation of this Manifesto or circulate it.

Drop an email to onelektra at gmx dot net if you want to be on the list of signers.

Best regards
Elektra Wagenrad and friends

Signers:

Elektra Wagenrad – Artist, Philosopher, Electronics and Wireless Networking Engineering, Berlin, Germany